Talking about race and racism is difficult but critical in fighting racial prejudice and injustice. Our children have the power to change our future with tools provided by their parents and caretakers. Use the following resources to help guide your journey at home that ensures our future generations value and celebrate racial diversity.

Articles

- How White Parents Can Talk to Their Kids About Race - NPR
- Talking Race with Young Children - NPR
- Talking to Children About Racial Bias - HealthyChildren.org

Compiled Resources

- Addressing Racial Injustice With Young Children - EmbraceRace
- Resources for Talking About Race, Racism and Racialized Violence With Kids - Center For Racial Justice in Education
- Social Justice - Glazer Children's Museum
- Your Kids Aren't Too Young to Talk About Race - Pretty Good Design